Dear

I have discussed with General Sibert since his return the advisability of you spending most of your time at [REDACTED] in actual supervision of our operation rather than in [REDACTED] as heretofore. It is my understanding that you and General Sibert discussed this matter fully and that General Sibert left instructions with you that he felt you should spend practically all of your time at [REDACTED] and, if possible, you should actually live nearby.

I do not know whether or not you have effected such an arrangement yet, but wanted to write you about this matter just in case General Sibert didn't make it as clear to you as he indicated to me that he thought he had. As you know, this has been my feeling all along, but I necessarily had reservations about it since I had not actually observed the operation. At this time, with many new members on your staff, I feel that it is even more necessary than ever that this arrangement be effected at the earliest possible date.

Sincerely,
